

Danny Makes It!

Danny Liska, well-known here for his motorcycle travels and lectures on his travels, has now hit the tip of South America, according to word received here.

Danny was attempting to be the first man to travel the distance from the northern tip of North America to the southern tip of South America all by motorcycle.

He's now done it!

He will remain at the southern tip for some time yet seeking information on customs and items of interest for his future lectures and stories.

His address will be:

Danny Liska,
care of U. S. Consul
Consulado de Estados Unidos,
Buenos Aires, Argentina
