

Danny's Home

Yes, at long last, Danny Liska, author of "Fancy Free" which has appeared periodically in this newspaper, is back home.

He's home — filled with months and months and miles and miles of traveling and wonderful experiences.

Danny arrived home last Wednesday after a 20-month trip to the southern tip of South America which culminated a big dream of his — to be the first person to travel from the northern tip of North America to the southern tip of South America traveling by motorcycle.

To attempt to mention all his accomplishments would take unending words. Acquaintances and friends and interested persons may expect to see his stories in the near future, see his pictures and hear his comments. Let that suffice for now.

In the meantime, welcome back Danny!

More Photos Page Eight

DANNY, together with his wife, stand in front of the Mauck Studio window which was painted to welcome Danny back to Plainville. He has many friends here, is a member of the local motorcycle club and has written for this newspaper. (Mauck Photo)